One of the links in today's readings focuses on God's appointed messengers. The prophet Ezekiel receives an impossible task; bring the truth to a stubborn people who will refuse to respond. (Ez.2:2-5). The apostle Paul suffered persecution and imprisonment, however, he used those to magnify the glory of God (2 Cor 12:7-10). In the Gospel of Mark (6:1-6), our Lord Jesus Christ sought to teach among His kinsmen, only to have them reject his message out of a lack of faith in who He was. In each case, God's messengers faithfully and obediently engaged in their appointed task, regardless of the obstacles. May each one of us continue to serve as obedient messengers of God, trusting in the effective working of the Holy Spirit to do the rest.
